

DOWNLOAD STRUCTURE AND FUNCTION OF CHLOROPLASTS

Chloroplast [x]second and third membranes of the chloroplast. All secondary chloroplasts come from green and red algae. No secondary chloroplasts from glaucophytes have... Chloroplast membrane [x]may enclose chloroplasts in organisms that underwent secondary endosymbiosis, such as the euglenids and chlorarachniophytes. The chloroplasts come via endosymbiosis... Plastid (section Chloroplasts, proplastids, and differentiation) [x]meristematic regions of the plant. Proplastids and young chloroplasts typically divide by binary fission, but more mature chloroplasts also have this capacity... Cell (biology) (redirect from Parts of a cell) [x]plants, animals, and fungi. Eukaryotic cells contain organelles including mitochondria, which provide energy for cell functions; chloroplasts, which create... Intermembrane space (redirect from Chloroplast intermembrane space) [x]metabolic functions. Unlike the IMS of the mitochondria, the IMS of the chloroplast does not seem to have any obvious function. Mitochondria are surrounded by... Chloroplast DNA [x]chloroplasts relies on an RNA polymerase coded by the chloroplast's own genome, which is related to RNA polymerases found in bacteria. Chloroplasts also... Photosynthesis (redirect from Photosynthesis and Respiration) [x]and algae, photosynthesis takes place in organelles called chloroplasts. A typical plant cell contains about 10 to 100 chloroplasts. The chloroplast is... Eukaryote (redirect from Evolution of eukaryotes) [x]the plants, with chloroplasts. Eukaryotic cells contain membrane-bound organelles such as the nucleus, the endoplasmic reticulum, and the Golgi apparatus... Plant cell (redirect from Plant Cell Structure) [x]guard cells have chloroplasts. Chloroplasts contain the green pigment chlorophyll which is needed for photosynthesis. The epidermal cells of aerial organs... Symbiogenesis (redirect from Symbiotic theory of cellular evolution) [x]to Rickettsiales bacteria, while chloroplasts are thought to be related to cyanobacteria. The idea that chloroplasts were originally independent organisms... Protein (redirect from Protein function) [x]biomolecules and macromolecules that comprise one or more long chains of amino acid residues. Proteins perform a vast array of functions within organisms... Cell membrane (section Function) [x]Rhodospirillum rubrum, types of bacteria, share similar functions to mitochondria and blue-green algae (cyanobacteria) share similar functions to chloroplasts. Endosymbiotic... ATP synthase (section Structure and function) [x]repeating unit of mitochondrial structure and function. Correlated electron microscopic and biochemical studies of isolated mitochondria and submitochondrial... Light-dependent reactions (section In chloroplasts) [x]PSI) is used to make ATP via ATP synthase. The structure and function of cytochrome b6/f (in chloroplasts) is very similar to cytochrome bc1 (Complex III... Elysia chlorotica [x]chloroplasts, by storing them within its extensive digestive system. It then takes up the live chloroplasts into its own gut cells as organelles and maintains... ATPase (section Functions) [x]electrochemical potential. The ATP synthase of mitochondria and chloroplasts is an anabolic enzyme that harnesses the energy of a transmembrane proton gradient as... ATP synthase alpha/beta subunits [x](F1Fo ATPases) are found in mitochondria, chloroplasts and bacterial plasma membranes are the prime producers of ATP, using the proton gradient generated... Chlorophyll (redirect from Biosynthesis of chlorophyll) [x]various scales Chlorophyll is any of several related green pigments found in cyanobacteria and in the chloroplasts of algae and plants. Its name is derived... Ecosystem (redirect from Ecosystem function) [x]capacity of a system to absorb disturbance and reorganize while undergoing change so as to retain essentially the same function, structure, identity, and feedbacks... Etioplast (section Transition to chloroplast) [x]an intermediate type of plastid that develop from proplastids that have not been exposed to light, and convert into chloroplasts upon exposure to light...
